

'A Good Education'

How schools can ensure that they are 'doing the right thing by their pupils'.

Course Booking Reference: TS18

Amanda Spielman has said that, in future, Ofsted will, 'want to know what is being taught and how schools are achieving a good education, not just what the results are looking like.'

David Didau taught English for 15 years before becoming a full time writer, speaker and consultant. His blog, The Learning Spy, is one of the most influential education blogs in the U.K. He has written several books, amongst them 'What if Everything you knew about education was wrong?' and influenced Ofsted on their approach to inspections. His new book, 'Making Kids Cleverer' will be released soon.

Course Summary:

David Didau will promote debate and reflection about the curriculum by presenting recent research into teaching, learning and a knowledge-based curriculum, focusing particularly on:

- why intelligence matters
- how teachers can increase children's intelligence
- the implications of recent research for the 'how' & 'what' of the curriculum.

The outcomes from this day should enable teachers and school leaders to clarify their thinking about 'a good education', especially in relation to:

Intent – what is it that we want for all our children?

Implementation – how are teaching and assessment fulfilling the intent?

Impact – what are the results and wider outcomes that children achieve?
